

Jason Harris, M.A.

Jason Harris serves as a Program Associate for The Diversity Center of Northeast Ohio's School and Youth department.

As a Program Associate, he serves as a primary community resource in the area of diversity, equity, and inclusion for students grades K-12. He assists with the development and implementation of inclusive and equitable environments, where all feel connected, appreciated, respected, and valued for individual and collective differences.

Background:

Jason's professional background is in education. From 2009-2013 Jason served as an assistant pre-school teacher. From 2013-2014 he worked as an education coach for junior high school students. In the fall of 2014, he moved to Cleveland, Ohio where he served one year as an AmeriCorps member for College Now Greater Cleveland. Jason was then hired as a College and Career Access Adviser and served several high schools throughout Cleveland Metropolitan School District. As a College and Career Adviser, Jason supported students and families in attaining post-secondary options through college and career advising, financial aid counseling, and scholarship and retention services. In the fall of 2017 Jason started teaching, and still teaches, as a part-time English instructor at Cleveland State University.
